After devology and invocation, the pasto ead the Ninetieth Paslm, that "Hymn of the ages," written by Moses, and supposed to be the oldest record extent Lord, Thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations; byfore the mountains were brought forth, " &c.

The hymn commencing "Great God ! how infinite art Thon ! was sung by the congregation, and after prayer and another hymn, a discourse was presched from 2 charish, 12:11, "In that day shell there be a great mourning in erusalem, as the mourning of Hadadrim on in the Valley of Megidoton."

That mourning, which became a proverh in action I forced, was the national lament for the fall in battle of King Josiah, one of the most trusted and beloved of the Hebrard monarchs. The jamentable corruption that prevailed when he ascended the throne, was sketched by the preacher, and also the was sketched by the preacher, and also the work which he accomplished, under God, in purifying the land from the idelateies which had professed it. The confidence, hope, and love of the whole people gradually clustered around their honored sover-lign, and his life was precious to them. And when in an encounter with the King of Egypt by the waters of Megidio, he fell pierced by a fatal arrow, and was borne buck dead in his chariot to his capital, the whole find burst into a plaint of grief and despair, "and all the single general and singing women spoke of Josiah in their immentations to this day." The prostrate walls and tions to this day." The prostrate walls and clumns of Megiddo now lie formsken on the order of the Pinin of Esdraelen, and the border of the Francisco and Laurente, and the little brook by their side atill flows with a gentle current across the plain and interest. In traversing that country, twom ty years ago, I sat down, one day, upor those solitary ruins, on the bank of the described stream, and thought of the battle and the immensation, of which that silen and the immentation, of which that silent spot was more the scane, with pensive feelings—but not with the sadness which I bring to this service, and with which we look ught this drapery, reminding us of our great national becavement, and upon the face below, so appropriately wreathed, and which in its silence speaks to the congre-gation with decept-pathon them any possi-ble utterance of the living speaker above it. And similar to the great of the dwall matter, of old, is that which fills the Repubthe And similar to the Free.

In a single of old, is that which fills the Republic to-day, on the fall, not in buttle, but by the chealthy hand of an assausic, of the beloved President of the United States.

A parallel was drawn between the officer

A parallel we draw a detailed a service of the Herew rater and that of our late President, who did not go to the sent of government as a reformer, but who in faithful adheraces tather into of official duty, following "the regio of events" and the lastings of Divine Providence, had been the instrument under God, of redeeming leadings of Divine Providence, had been the instrument under God, of redeeming the land from an abunination which, to the God of justice and of human brother-hood; could not have been less revolting than the pages joletry to which his ancient people apostatized. Having done this work, he is smitten down, and his embalmed body waits to be transported to its resting place, through towns and cities draped, as to day, with the symbols of anyton' corrow, and amid tears and lamennation's sorrow, and smid tears and lamen-tations as sincere and dzi7orss; as those which attended the royal chariot—the hearse and the berof its owner—as it slowly weather mortal form of Judah's heat be wed rular to his home and his sepulchre on Mount Figh.

The appointer adverted to rome of the analysis which the Prosident brought to us appointed work—earnest self-training amoneod after the flexible sesson outh had possed away, and with it, fover, the susceptibility to many forms raceful culture: native sagneity, more re able and serviceable than the brilliance of genius; sterling common sense, more indispensable than the philosophy of the schools, though the latter is never slighte by sensible mer, and was not by him; as almost inexheustible fund of genuine goo feeling, which could scarcely be goaded wearled into impationce or irritation; disposition singularly humane and kin unaffected modesty, free from clation or solfth exuitation, yet combined with manly solf-reliance and deep rested trust in Frov-idence; inflexible housety, on which, smid abounding corruption, no shadow of suspi-tion ever realed; unfaltering attachmen to the principles of pure republicanism and abilding faith in their triumph; deve ted patriotism, broad as his country; con scientious fidelity to his trusts; and unyielding tenscity of purpose in what he re-garded as the right. His proclamation of emancipation, embalming his memory in the gratitude of millions of freedmon, will carry his name down to posterity with a fame scarcely linked with any other in his tory; and no inaugural address of the Chief Magistrate of a great nation was ever mere fraught with the spirit of justice and f mercy than that which our President ately uttered.

The preacher then took up the moral esons and duties which the event men cased, summoring the efflicted Republicand its new President to place their true in the Lord, who would never leave us we did not forsake Him, and having been ur fathers God, would be our God size and the God of our children. The service closed with the following ymn, sung by the congregation : Rest for the tolling band, Rest for the anxious br. w. Feat for the weary way-wird feet, Rest from all labor was.

"Rest for the forered binlin, Rest for the firebbing sys; "brough these packed lips of thise no more Boat pass the mean or sigh. "Soes shall the tramp of Got Give out the malcome sound.

A new large well, which is asserted to have flowed sixty barrels in five hours and half, yesterday, has been struck upon West Hickory, which is a tributary of the Allegheny still further to the northward than Pithole and Stewart's Run. This would indicate a yield of about 250 barrels per day, which is larger than any strike in this region since the United States well which created such a furore upon Pithole. At any rate its tendency will be to advance all stocks and properties apon East, West and Little Hickory, upon the Allegheny and Stewart's Run, which is will officiate but a short distance from the location of spin-100 this new well.

the Boston Oil Well Company. Developments now in progress upon the Tionesta give promise of good wells upon that creek.

The boiler of a stationary engine exploded yesterday on the Allegheny, nearly opposite the mouth of Pithole, so seriously scalding the engineer that he can hardly survive. I sm unable to give his name. Such accidents are far more rare than would be expected where there are such multitudes of engines in close proximity and many of them in the charge of inexperienced men or boys. Meadville is growing rapidly, not only in the number of dwelling houses, but in the mere pretentious and important structures from which the busy hum of machinery and manufactures will give ceaseless testimony to the substantial increase of the town. Besides several smaller establishments which are about being erected, a large bar- church, on to-day at 19 M. rel factory will be put in course of creetion by Messrs, Dock & Vincentduring the comming week, intended to be of the capacity of 400 barrels daily. The main building will be 250 feet in length by 59 in width, with three wings extending to the resr. It will be readily seen that this enterprise will give employment to a large number of & Co. warkmen, who, with the daily wants of all their families, will add largely to the already established trade of the merchants, grocers and tradramen of the place.

Where all this incoming population is to live I cannot conceive. Already dwelling houses are sadly too few for the comfort or means of those who do not own their own dwellings, both board and rent being enormously high. The Atlantic and Great Wes- prevail. tern Railroad hes only kept its army of workmen here by building a large number of cottages, and establishing boarding houses under the charge of employed agenta. He who shall erect comfortable houses in this place, which will pay a fair profit when rented at from $150 to $300 per year, will do a good work for the town, and, hope, enrich his own pockets.

Central Hall was densely crowded or Thurs lay night by an audience who listened | ren and Eriscounties, eagerly to one of John B. Gough's impassiqued temperanes discourses. A temperance reform is sadly needed in this place. It remains to be seen whether moral sunsion or adequate police will be the agent most relied upon by the inhabitants and CRIPS. anthoristes.

GRAND PAINTING .- Carponter's celebrated sinting, "The Emancipation Proclamstion before the Cabinet," will be on exhibition in Chapin's Hall next week. We need not repeat here the words of praise which this work of art has received where ever it has been exhibited. Mrs. Lincoln has declared that the portrait of the President given in that distinguished group, is the only really truthful likeness of him, which has ever been taken. The exhibition of this grand painting in ou city, will be the event of the week.

Tota yer Batta.-Chief Engineer Hill who has been appointed to notify the men in charge of the church and fire-bells, wishes it publicly announced that the bells throughout the city will be telled fifteen minutes to-day, beginning at I1:45 and continuing until noon, when public servies will be commenced.

Mounton's Spaine Ban .- We gave this new institution a careful examination yes terday, and were convinced that the mannfacturers of this spring bed-bottom have at less fully realized what has been so long attempted—a perfect bed. It is infinitely easy, and as durable as anything here below. The bottom can be fitted to any bed-stead. The slate are attached to the bedead at either end by straps of rubber, pre ared by a chemical process for this ser vice, and clamps of iron and copper. This arrangement gives the clats a semi-rotary motion as a person rolls upon them, and thus secures the perfection of comfort, which is the highest praise of this bed. Will not some of our furniture manufac-turers buy up a "right," and supply this region with the heat of beds? We advise all who are in want of a capital bed to call on the Agent, Mr. O. Whittier, No. 112 Water street.
